

Graduate Psychologist Positions

Are you a new graduate psychologist? We want you!

- Values based company with supportive, friendly culture
- Competitive contracting arrangement and consultation fees OR option for inclusive Registrar employment package
- Regular individual and peer group supervision included
- Beautiful location, recently refurbished clinic rooms (all with natural light and indoor plants), close to public transport, free parking, multiple cafés at our doorstep

About True North Psychology:

True North Psychology is a psychology private practice in the leafy-green, inner-city suburb of Wilston, Brisbane. True North Psychology was borne out of a desire to provide a high-quality psychology service to clients, that is collaborative, compassionate and above all, effective.

We provide a space that is safe, comfortable and respectful, so that our clients can explore the issues most important to them and come to a greater understanding of these. We help our clients to build a life worth living by balancing acceptance, validation, empathy and a listening ear with the teaching of pragmatic skills and tools that can transform their life.

Our practice is well established at treating a range of mental illnesses including depression, anxiety and substance use disorders. In addition, we have a reputation for working with suicidal and self-harming patients, personality disorders, eating disorders, couples and with the LGBTIQ+ populations.

What we offer:

Due to a consistently high demand for our services we are seeking new graduate psychologists to join True North Psychology. We have recently expanded our practice and can offer you newly renovated rooms each with big windows and an abundance of natural light. There are currently multiple opportunities for work.

- Work with the type, and number of clients you want to work with
- Support to carve out your niche area of interest
- Coaching and mentoring in business skills to succeed in private practice
- Opportunity to choose your preferred work schedule from one evening per week to full time
- Opportunities for peer supervision and consultation with experienced colleagues
- Opportunities for in-house professional development
- Supervision for clinical, counselling, and sport and exercise registrar psychology programs if required
- In-house monthly peer group supervision
- Exceptional admin support and diary management
- Web-based patient management software
- A strong and rapidly growing referral base
- Average consultation fees above other Brisbane psychology practices
- Increased rates for before and after-hours consultations
- Opportunity to grow with the company, progressing in responsibilities and earnings
- Fully furnished consulting rooms and administration areas
- Regular team social outings
- A contract position (ABN required) or employment position in private practice

What we are looking for:

- Nearing completion of post-graduate training and eligibility for full registration as a psychologist with AHPRA
- Experience in, or willingness to train in and utilise evidence-based treatment strategies (e.g. CBT or ACT or Schema Therapy or DBT).
- Experience providing individual therapy to clients
- Experience treating across the lifespan
- Psychologists seeking a collegial team environment
- Psychologists interested in work-life balance and longevity in the profession
